
If you're a Volkswagen owner, have been around the block a few times, and have an appetite for beating the system, there's a new version of Vw beta code calculator available for download. This time it is made out of LEGO bricks. This LEGO calculator can be modified to represent any automobile model from any African country. Or so I hear.

Vw Beta Code Calculator V2.0 14l features: Built-in 3D engine simulation of Volkswagen '73 to '89. Full interactive control over engine and fuel emission parameters. Fuel efficiency and exhaust emissions can be changed through the use of a digital thermometer and a sound level meter respectively. Fuel economy and fuel efficiency can be evaluated on various vehicles, including: Bus, Car, Shrimboat, Lorry and any other vehicles you can think of. Full engine system simulation, including emission factors. Calculate your engine life - find out how much kilometers (mi) you can drive with the current oil and petrol consumption. Get a complete picture of all motor vehicle performance parameters using the integrated vehicle data base.

3D-Rendering options: voxels or meshes?

Test Drive Options: Leanburn or Turbo? Fuel consumption levels can be adjusted by choosing one of these two engines/transmission options. There are 8 levels of performance for each option to choose from, with various fuel consumption values to be selected at various speeds. The lean burn mode only works on the tiptronic transmission models. This calculator can be used with any version of the game.

It is not possible to buy your code online, since you can't read it. But there are other ways to get one if you know the right sources.

This calculator is now discontinued. It was never released in stores or internet stores. There are rumors that if you have a working version 3, then you can use an update that will solve the beta code issue, but there are no finished screenshots or video to support this claim. Another rumor says that Vw Beta Code Calculator V2. 0 14l will be released soon, but this news is also not confirmed.

This calculator sold out very fast on Ebay. More info at the bottom of the page... This calculator has been discontinued since its creation by the author because of the many bugs he faced after its release on 15th April 2009.
